Tripura has beautiful rock cut carvings and stone images at Unakoti, Debamura and Pilak. Most of these carvings are huge in size and made on vertical walls exposed in the open atmosphere. Heritage tourism, a relatively new coinage as idea, means guiding tourists through the alley and memory lances of history in the course of travels. With its rich historical past and tradition of composite culture, Tripura is also paradise for heritage tourism and tourists partake in the sheer delight of being in places of history that once lay buried.

Unakoti

Location: Kailasagar Sub-Division
Distance: 178 K.M. from Agartala, 8 K.M from Dharmanagar

Unakoti is an important site of archaeological wonder. It is a Shiva pilgrimage attraction that dates to 7th-9th centuries A.D. This site consists of several huge vertical rock-cut carvings on all hill side. Unakoti means one less than a crore. These carvings are located at a beautifully landscaped forest area with green vegetation all around which add to the beauty of the carvings. The images found at unakoti are two types, namely rock-carved figures and stone images. Among the rock cut carvings, the central shiva head and gigantic figures deserve special mention. It is the biggest bronze relief in India.

Boxanagar

Location: Bishalgarh Sub-Division
Distance: 38 K.M. from Agartala

Recently after denudation of a natural forest area, ruins of brick-built building emerged in the northwestern part of Sonamura Sub-Division on the edge of the border with Bangladesh. The local people initially attributed the remains to an ancient temple of Manasa, the goddess of snake. Attention was drawn to the Archaeological Survey of India, and they took over the site. There an idol of Lord Buddha was discovered and it was confirmed that it had been a Biddha Temple. More excavation of the site will unearth the hidden story.

Chaturdasha Devta Temple

Location: Khayerpur, Old Agartala

Distance: 6 K.M. from Agartala

The worship of Fourteen Gods has an old history and legend. During the time of Mahabhata, Trilochan was the king of Tripura who used to worship these Fourteen Gods as Royal deities. The tradition continued with all subsequent kings of Tripura being celebrated every year during the month of July. Maharaja Krishna Manikya once more shifted his capital from old Agartala to the present Agartala in 1840 AD but the images of 14 Gods remained in the same temple. The ruin of old Royal Palace is still there beside the temple of the Fourteen Gods.
